JAPAN : Asian shares wilt as Korean tensions rise

Asian shares withered yesterday and the yen firmed against the backdrop of rising tensions on the Korean peninsula, and as investors awaited fresh signals about the US monetary policy outlook. Futures suggested a subdued start to the European trading day, with the Eurostoxx 50 and FTSE futures both down 0.1 percent and DAX futures down 0.2 percent. MSC's broadest index of Asia-Pacific shares outside Japan was down 0.6 percent, following tech-focused losses on Wall Street. The risk-averse mood increased the appeal of safe-haven government debt, with the yield on benchmark 10-year Treasury notes edging down to 2.218 percent from its US dose on Monday of 2.22 percent. Investors are watching closely for clues on whether the US central bank will stick to its plan to raise interest rates in December. (Khmer Time)

BUSINESS & ECONOMIC NEWS

CAMBODIA : Uber is now in Phnom Penh

US-based Uber officially launched its ride-sharing service in Cambodia yesterday, making good on its expansion plans in Asia. According to Uber, Cambodia is the first country in Asia to implement a dedicated ride-sharing framework even before the company's services were launched. Cambodia is now the 78th country in the world where Uber is available. Uber's Asia Pacific chief business officer, Brooks Entwistle, said that Uber is the new modern transportation solution for Cambodia. "Cambodians can now just press a button on their smartphone to get a safe, reliable and affordable ride," Mr Entwistle said. Mr Entwistle, a former chairman of Goldman Sachs Southeast Asia, said: "We are very excited to launch ride-sharing technology in Cambodia, to serve riders, driver-partners and the city of Phnom Penh." CAMBODIA : $50m boost for farming

The Asian Development Bank approved $50 million in additional financing to help boost agricultural productivity and improve smallholder farmers' access to markets in 271 communes in the Tonle Sap basin, which is prone to natural calamities. "The additional financing will help the government further improve agriculture productivity, diversify the Tonle Sap basin's economy to benefit smallholder farmers and come up with development initiatives that reflect the needs of local communities," said ADB water resources specialist Thuy Trang Dang on Tuesday. "Communities with more climate-resilient infrastructure can bounce back more quickly from natural disasters," added Ms Thuy. The additional $50 million would be used to support the development of small-scale irrigation systems and the construction and rehabilitation of rural roads, incorporating disaster risk management in their design. It will also help rural communities adopt climate-smart agricultural practices, increase farmers' access to market data, and further develop the value chains of agriculture products. (Khmer Times)

CAMBODIA : Law to safeguard savings

The Ministry of Rural Development is set to legalise community savings groups as a measure to ensure that resource-poor people in rural areas, who do not have collateral for loans from microfinance institutions, can get access to credit. Minister of Rural Development Ouk Rabun told the National Conference on Community Saving yesterday that community savings groups supported the local economy and the loans are dispersed to poor group members at low interest rates. "Because of this, we have to make these groups are sustainable and having a legislation to protect them is important," said Mr Rabun. In June, the ministry unveiled plans to draft a law on community savings groups. The draft law is expected to be passed by the Council of Ministers by the end of the year. Community savings groups elect their own leaders and establish the financial structure and lending terms collectively. Group members regularly contribute to a savings fund and are eligible to apply for small loans from that fund. (Khmer Times)

CAMBODIA : CRF agrees on Malys Angkor

The Cambodia Rice Federation (CRF) together with the Ministry of Commerce has finally selected "Malys Angkor" as the brand for Cambodian premium rice. CRF secretary-general Moul Sarith told Khmer Times yesterday that the official announcement would be made at Cambodia Rice Forum in November. "Malys Angkor would be the brand name for premium rice such as somaly, phka romduol, phka chansensor and phka khnei," said Mr Sarith. "We will announce this brand name at November's 6th Cambodia Rice Forum. This new name does not overlap with other names and we are now processing documents to register it as a trademark with the Ministry of Commerce," he added. Song Saran, CEO of Amru Rice (Cambodia), said previously that the long delay in choosing a brand name meant that exporters were still using their own names for Cambodian rice, such as jasmine rice or fragrant rice. (Khmer Times)

CAMBODIA : Banks ink MoU for sustainable financing

Representatives of the Association of Banks in Cambodia (ABC), the International Finance Corporation (IFC) and the Mongolian Bankers Association (MBA) signed an agreement yesterday aimed at developing a sustainable financing framework for Cambodia. Speaking to reporters after the signing ceremony, acting ABC Chairman Charles Vann said the memorandum of understanding (MoU) directs financial institutions in Cambodia to find the most appropriate mechanism for sustainable financing. "We [banks] do business and not only target profits but think about both profits and the sustainability," he said. "We propose to seek a way to help our clients' businesses so that they can take out a loan and operate profitably while repaying the loan to the bank." Under the MoU, the IFC will provide assistance to promote sustainable financing and support the growth of green financing in Cambodia, while MBA will share its experiences of sustainable financing in Mongolia. CHINA : China's industrial profits jump

Profits at China's industrial companies rose the most in four years in August as commodities prices surged, thanks to a government-backed construction boom that is helping Beijing trim high levels of corporate debt without tripping up the economy. The upbeat earnings report is another sweetener for authorities as China focuses on stripping out financial risks from years of credit-fuelled growth and keeping the economy on a steady footing ahead of a crucial party gathering next month. Profits in August jumped 24 percent year-on-year to 672 billion yuan ($101.21 billion), the National Bureau of Statistics (NBS) said yesterday. Discounting the combined January to February profit rise of 31.5 percent, the latest earnings boost would be the biggest single monthly percentage surge since August 2013. The statistics bureau does not release single-month figures for January-February due to seasonal factors. Annual profit growth was 16.5 percent in July (Khmer Times)
