ASIAN : Asian markets down as Sino-US tariffs kick in

Most Asian markets fell on Monday as fresh Chinese and US tariffs on goods worth hundreds of billions of dollars kicked in, though US President Donald Trump reiterated that the two sides were still due to hold talks this month. Hong Kong was weighed down by another weekend of violence, fuelling worries about possible Chinese intervention in the financial hub, while the unrest has also hit property firms and Macau's casinos. Washington's latest levies on imports from China took effect on Sunday and were followed by Beijing's retaliation. The measures are the latest in the long-running trade war between the world's top two economies, which has rattled markets and hit growth across the globe. Still, Trump said negotiators would meet this month to discuss the issue. "We are talking to China, the meeting is still on," he told reporters. However, analysts warned there was unlikely to be any end in the near term. "After a rough August traders should buckle up for more volatility in September," said Neil Wilson, chief market analyst at Markets.com. "Trade and tariffs continue to gnaw away at investor confidence." Tokyo and Sydney each ended 0.4% lower, while Singapore shed 0.8%, with Manila, Bangkok and Jakarta also down. (AFP)

HONG KONG : HK stocks stand out with surge

Asian markets rose on Wednesday, led by a surge in Hong Kong after reports said the city's leader was considering agreeing to a key demand of pro-democracy protesters, fuelling hopes for an end to months of damaging protests in the financial hub. Shares rallied across the board on the Hang Seng Index after the reports, with property and retail firms among the best performers, having taken a hiding over the past few weeks as the demonstrations were increasingly dogged by violence. Chief Executive Carrie Lam and Beijing have so far refused to make any concessions to the protesters beyond agreeing to suspend a loathed extradition bill, a move that fell far short of demands to permanently shelve it. But one pro-establishment lawmaker who asked to remain anonymous said their camp was being summoned to meet

Lam on Wednesday afternoon ahead of an expected major announcement. Multiple news organisations later said Lam would announce a full withdrawal of the bill later in the afternoon. “The withdrawal is a sign of an inflection point in the 13-week-long crisis,” said Justin Tang, head of Asian research at United First Partners. “Retail and property stock investors are signalling their optimism and putting their money where it matters.” (AFP)

CAMBODIA : Cambodia among top five exporters of organic rice to the EU

Cambodia was the fifth largest exporter of organic rice to the European Union last year, with local companies confident exports will continue to rise in the coming years. Demand for organic rice in the EU and other key markets like the United States, Australia, and China is soaring as consumers become more environmentally and health-conscious, key insiders said. According to figures from the EU shared with the Cambodia Rice Federation, Cambodia exported 8,467 tonnes of organic rice to the bloc last year, representing 3.9% of all EU organic rice imports. The US was the largest exporter of organic rice to the EU, accounting for almost 70% of the market. It was followed by Pakistan and India, with 10 and 9%, respectively. Thailand came in at number four with 4.9% of the market (10,522 tonnes in exports). Local rice exporters told Khmer Times that the amount of Cambodian organic rice shipped to the bloc has increased this year. About 90% of all Cambodian exports of organic rice to the EU last year belonged to Amru Rice Cambodia. Kann Kunthy, vice president of Amru Rice, yesterday said the company has entered contract farming schemes with about 5,000 farmers and this year it aims to export 20,000 tonnes of organic rice to foreign markets, 80 to 90% of which will be sent to the EU. CAMBODIA : NBC to push for local currency use

The National Bank of Cambodia is set to hold a campaign to promote the use of riel later this month by encouraging people to exchange old or torn banknotes for new ones. According to a statement issued on August 30, the National Bank of Cambodia will carry out the campaign to coincide with Pchum Ben from September 16 to 26. The bank will heavily promote the exchange of old or torn banknotes in branches across the Kingdom. Holders of torn riel notes can visit any branch, except its head office in Phnom Penh, to change notes. Exchanging old banknotes is accepted at the bank year-round. However, the practice is not commonly known by the public. Meanwhile, less than pristine banknotes are sometimes refused at cashiers in the Kingdom, leading to holders of ruined notes to not use their currency. Bun Mony, deputy chairman of Cambodia Microfinance Association, welcomed the announcement, saying that it will encourage a wider use of the local currency. “We do encourage our people to use riel as it is our currency,” Mr Mony said. Ouk Sovanlyda, a student at the Royal University of Phnom Penh, said that the campaign will also help people who are hesitant about using their torn banknotes. (Khmer Times)

CAMBODIA : Visa unveils ‘security roadmap’ for Cambodia

Visa, the world’s leader in digital payments, yesterday launched an initiative to make digital payments in Cambodia safer and aid the Kingdom’s transformation into a cashless economy. The ‘Future of Security Roadmap’ was introduced to the public by Shivakumar Siraman, Visa’s chief risk officer for Southeast Asia, during an event. Mr Siraman said the roadmap aims to enable security to evolve at the same pace as the technologies changing the way consumers pay. He said it focuses on four areas: devaluing data to render it useless for criminals; protecting data; harnessing data to identify fraud before it occurs; and empowering consumers by engaging them in the fight against fraud. “Our future depends on building layers of security to protect and harness data,” Mr Siraman said. He said similar roadmaps are now in use across Asia. “Visa is delivering roadmaps around the world to ensure the security of the global commerce ecosystem, as well as working with Cambodia industry bodies to align security initiatives,” he said. Monika Chum, Visa’s country manager, said securing the commerce ecosystem is the company’s highest priority and a responsibility that it shares with other payment networks, consumers, banks, and the government. CAMBODIA : Chinese firms urged to invest in affordable housing

The Phnom Penh Municipality has asked a group of Chinese businesspeople to invest in an affordable housing project targeting civil servants and low-income people. In a meeting on Tuesday, Khuong Sreng, the governor of Phnom Penh, told the World Hakka Business Association, led by its chairman Li Kam Chung, that the project will have the support of City Hall. He said the affordable housing project will be located in the outskirts of Phnom Penh, 45 minutes to an hour drive from the city centre. "If the association agrees, the Phnom Penh Municipality will request the government to help the investors import the building materials duty-free," he said. "The project will be just 50 to 60 kilometres from the city." Nuon Rithy, chairman and CEO of Khmer Appraisal Foundation, said affordable housing projects are becoming more popular in the Kingdom. "Affordable housing projects are more and more popular, attracting interest because units can be bought for less than $30,000," Mr Rithy said. According to the Ministry of Land Management, there are now three affordable housing projects under construction. In 2016, WorldBridge Land started construction of the first-ever public housing project in Cambodia, located on a 45-hectare plot of land in Kandal's Saang district. (Khmer times)

CAMBODIA : Banking Jumps Up with Solid Foothold

The importance of more efficient and service oriented IT system of financial institutions is getting higher as the financial market of Cambodia rapidly changes in terms of competition and complexity of products and services as well. Banks and other financial institutions are rushing to provide more convenient services to customers, especially being armed with digital channels. Chokchey Finance PLC recently launched a significant project to establish new core banking system, based on the full-ranged system of Phnom Penh Commercial Bank (PPCBank). Last May, PPCBank successfully completed the development of "next generation" core banking system with its implementation partner Mobile C&C which is called "APSARA" banking system. It is the first case in Cambodia to develop bank's own core banking system without relying on package vendor solution. "APSARA" banking system is a crystall of efforts to combine advanced banking system technology of Korea and practical business requirement of commercial bank in Cambodia. Mobile C&C, having its business presence in Cambodia and Korea, has co-worked with PPCBank to build a stable, flexible, expandible and full automated core banking system. (Khmer times)

CHINA : Rising US exports shrink trade deficit, China imports tumble

A bump in US exports helped shrink the country's yawning trade deficit in July while imports from China continued to fall amid the two nations' trade war, government data showed on Wednesday. The relatively steady deficit comes as hopes dim for a near-term resolution to the Sino-US conflict, which has begun to rattle the US economy. Economists on Wednesday said the trade gap is likely to widen in the coming months as demand for US manufacturing exports weakens further, creating a drag on the economy. The US trade gap in July narrowed by 2.7% to $54 billion, the largest drop in five months, as the US exported more automobiles, medications, aircraft and oil drilling equipment, the Department of Commerce said. Economists had been expecting an even bigger decline. Imports from China, the prime target of US President Donald Trump's multi-pronged trade offensive launched last year, fell 1.9% to $39 billion, their lowest level since April. Mexico and the EU appear to have picked up some of the slack, as the US deficit with both markets continued to rise. Overall, exports rose 0.6% to $207.4 billion which still left them below last year's level through July. Imports fell 0.1% to $261.4 billion. (AFP)
