HONG KONG : Hong Kong exchange unveils shock $39.5B bid for London rival

The Hong Kong Stock Exchange has bid almost £32 billion ($39.457 billion) for its London rival in a shock move on Wednesday to bring together two of the world's largest financial hubs in Asia and Europe. The blockbuster proposal including debt is dependent on the London Stock Exchange Group (LSEG) scrapping a proposed $27 billion takeover of US financial data provider Refinitiv. In reaction, LSEG said it would "consider the proposal" but stressed that it "remains committed" to buying Refinitiv. The surprise news initially sent LSEG shares surging 10%. The stock later stood up 4.5% at about £71, far below the offer price of more than £83 per share as analysts doubted the likelihood of a deal being struck given LSEG's commitment to Refinitiv. London's benchmark FTSE 100 index was up 0.9% overall in late morning deals. "Hong Kong Exchanges and Clearing Limited [HKEX] today announces that it has made a proposal to the board of LSEG to combine the two companies," it said in a statement. The cash-and-shares offer is worth £31.6 billion including £2.0 billion of debt, HKEX added. (AFP)

PHILIPPINE : Stock market buoyed by hopes of Philippine-China oil and gas exploration

Shares of oil and gas exploration company PXP Energy Corp (PXP) surged by 11.2% on the local stock market on Wednesday, boosted by expectation that it could soon resume exploration in Recto Bank now that the Philippines and China had agreed on a joint venture to develop gas deposits in the West Philippine Sea. PXP's share price climbed to 12.34 pesos ($0.24) per share at Wednesday's close from 11.30 pesos in the previous session, but tumbled to 12.30 pesos on Thursday. The guidelines for the joint exploration have been signed and an intergovernmental steering committee was created. While the joint venture is worked out on the government-to-government level, it is expected to make room for private companies in the future. Energy Secretary Alfonso Cusi earlier said the joint venture with China could eventually include private sector participants. The companies appointed by the Chinese and

Philippine governments to spearhead the joint exploration were China National Offshore Oil Corp (CNOOC) and Philippine National Oil Co (PNOC), both government-owned corporations. PNOC's oil, gas and coal exploration arm is PNOC Exploration Corp. (PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER)

CAMBODIA : Cambodia, Laos to sign 2,400-MW power deal

Cambodia and Laos will sign a power deal this week during the state visit of the Laotian prime minister. Through this week's agreement, the Kingdom will buy 2,400 megawatts from neighbouring Laos. This week's deal will be discussed at the Council of Ministers, according to Victor Jona, the director-general of energy at the Ministry of Mines and Energy. The deal will be signed during Thongloun Sisolith's, Laos' prime minister, visit to Cambodia, Mr Jona said yesterday, adding that Cambodia is planning to build a high-voltage transmission system to carry the energy from the border with Laos to Phnom Penh. Under the agreement, the power imported from Laos will be generated at a coal-fired power plant, he said. "The power agreement will be signed next week. We are planning to build a 500 kilovolt, high-voltage transmission line from Laos to Stung Treng province, and then to Phnom Penh," Mr Jona said. The power deal was unveiled during a bilateral meeting held on the sidelines of a summit of Asean energy ministers last week in Bangkok, Thailand. Cambodia and Laos have already signed an energy deal through which the kingdom will import 100 MW starting next year. (Khmer Times)

CAMBODIA : Chinese firm announces investment in aquaculture

Chinese-run Grand Hong Yean Aquaculture (Cambodia) Co., Ltd is planning to expand its operations in the Kingdom's nascent aquaculture sector after having invested $1 million in farm facilities in Kampot province, according to a company official. On Monday Grand Hong Yean Aquaculture's farm received a visit from Agriculture Minister Veng Sakhon. During the minister's visit, the company revealed its expansion plans. "We are now conducting breeding tests in our grow-out ponds," Soub Sara Bunty, a representative of the company, told the minister. "In the grow-out ponds, the shrimps are grown to a marketable size, which takes about three months," he said, adding that 1 kilogram of shrimp can fetch more than $10. Mr Bunty said the company now plans to build 32 nursery ponds covering 32 hectares of land. Grand Hong Yean Aquaculture's facilities are located on Kampot's Tuek Chhou district. The firm said it has introduced advanced Chinese technology in Cambodia. This technology, Mr Bunty said, involves the installation and operation of a recirculation system for the water treatment used during the grow-out period. The system ensures the quality of shrimp and increases the profitability of the operation, he pointed out. (Khmer Times)

CAMBODIA : Infrastructure 'biggest challenge' for Cambodia's shipping industry

Cambodia needs to focus on infrastructure development if it wants its shipping and logistics industry to move forward. In a presentation during the 17th Asean Ports & Shipping Expo at NagaWorld Hotel & Casino, Primo Ye, country manager of Maersk (Cambodia) Ltd, said that, of all the challenges in the sector, it is the infrastructure problem that needs the most immediate attention. Headquartered in Denmark, Maersk is the world's largest container shipping company. It has a presence in Cambodia since the early 1990s. In the presentation, Mr Ye also mentioned problems related to capacity, productivity and efficiency, the garment supply chain, and cut-off times. In a subsequent interview, Mr. Ye noted that critical infrastructure, especially the roads, airport, railway, and port in Sihanoukville, or leading to it, are too small or inadequately equipped to support increasing cargo flow. Sihanoukville, home to the Kingdom's sole deepwater seaport, is Cambodia's most important trade link to the outside world. Mr. Ye especially took issue with the current road to Sihanoukville. According to him, trucks bringing cargo to Sihanoukville only make one run per day because of congestion and the road's poor condition. (Khmer Times)

CAMBODIA : Asean ports, shipping summit opens in Phnom Penh

The biggest event for the shipping industry in Southeast Asia kicked off yesterday in Cambodia. The 17th Asean Ports & Shipping 2019 got off to a good start yesterday at the NagaWorld Hotel & Casino, with some 170 delegates from 16 countries in attendance. Rory James Doyle, managing director of Transport Events, said among those present were delegates from Asean countries, Europe, and North America. Transport Events is the main organiser of the event, which is being hosted by Sihanoukville Autonomous Port (PAS) and Phnom Penh Autonomous Port (PPAP). Mr. Doyle said Cambodia's hosting of such an important event reflects its growing importance as an emerging economy in Southeast Asia. It is the first time Cambodia hosts the event, which is now on its 17th edition. "There is a huge amount of interest in the emerging economies of Southeast Asia," he said. Mr. Doyle said many businesses and investors in the shipping and logistics industry worldwide are interested in entering the Cambodian market. "They see the opportunities to do business in Cambodia," he stressed. Mr. Doyle said the event gave delegates an opportunity to expand their networks in the Kingdom. "Many of them want to meet and talk with PAS and PPAP," he noted. (Khmer times)

CHINA : China's exports fall in August as US trade war rumbles

China's exports fell by 1.0% on-year in August, official data showed yesterday, amid a bruising trade war with the US that has roiled markets in the world's top two economies. The drop comes after a surprise 3.3% rebound in July despite the yearlong battle with Washington and weakening global demand. But economists cited by Bloomberg had forecast a 2.2% rise ahead of the release of yesterday's figures by the customs administration. China's trade surplus also dropped sharply in August to $34.83 billion, from $44.58 billion the previous month, while imports continued a four-month decline at 5.6% on-year, matching the July figure. Washington imposed new tariffs on September 1 as it stepped up its high-pressure campaign to coerce Beijing into a new trade deal. The additional levies come on top of the 25% tariffs on $250 billion in imports already in place. China said Thursday that new talks with the US would be held in Washington in early October. In a sign of continued pressure on the Chinese economy, Beijing's central bank announced Friday it would cut deposit reserve requirements for banks. (AFP)

CHINA : Investment in Chinese policy bank bonds rises

Overseas investment in Chinese policy bank bonds has been rising sharply as institutional investors recognise their liquidity and investment value, experts said. A total of 103.5 billion yuan ($14.52 billion) of foreign capital has flowed into the Chinese policy bank bonds market during the first seven months of the year, hitting a record high both in size and growth rate, according to Bloomberg's calculations. The three main policy banks China Development Bank, the Agricultural Development Bank of China, and the Export-Import Bank of China were established during the 1994 banking reform to assume responsibility for financing economic and trade development and state-invested projects. Over the past 12 months ending July 31, Bloomberg's statistics show that overseas institutions had increased their investment in bonds issued by China Development Bank by 62%. During the same period, their investment in Chinese government bonds went up 19%. Li Bing, head of Bloomberg China, said overseas investors' move toward policy bank bonds in China illustrates their greater acceptance of the Chinese bond market, recognising a significant step forward in terms of risk control.
