CAMBODIA: PAS, PPAP inform CSX on FTC project investments

Cambodia's 2 major public-listed ports – Sihanoukville Autonomous Port (PAS) and Phnom Penh Autonomous Port (PPAP) – have announced their investment decisions for the first 21-km phase of the Funan Techo Canal project, which launched on Monday. For the first phase, PAS will invest 26 percent and PPAP 25% in the Funan Techo Inland Waterways and Logistics Co.Ltd, floated to manage the construction and operation of the prestigious canal, according to separate notifications sent to the Cambodia Securities Exchange (CSX). The remaining 49% stake in the first phase goes to the Overseas Cambodian Investment Corporation (OCIC), a local conglomerate. The two ports that listed on the CSX duly conveyed the investment decisions to the bourse as mandated by the regulations. The announcements made public by CSX on Monday. Both ports said in their separate announcements that the objective of the investment is the construction of the first 21 kilometers of the canal as well as its operation. The ports also said the investment decisions taken on the advice and recommendation of Prime Minister Hun Manet and that they honored by the invitation to participate in the prestigious project. "The Funan Techo Canal will advance the logistics sector in Cambodia and expand the country's inland shipping capabilities to the sea," the announcement by PAS noted. The PPAP notification also echoed the same sentiments about the growth of the country's logistics sector. It said the canal would help the development of the shipping route from PPAP to domestic seaports and international destinations. Meanwhile, a study by the Council for Development of Cambodia (CDC) found that the waterway would push shipment activities of PAS up to 90 percent. Currently, 67% of the country's exported goods go via PAS and 33 percent via PPAP, passing through ports in Vietnam before reaching international markets, a report by CDC said. The project, being implemented after a 26-month-long detailed study, aims to connect inland waterways to the sea of Cambodia, passing through Kandal, Takeo, Kampot and Kep provinces. It is about 180 kilometers long. The project, undertaken with an estimated cost of $1.7 billion, is also expect to foster development along its route, strengthen industry, agriculture, logistics and real estate and create new economic hubs, he said. Once operational, as per the current schedule in 2028, the canal, under a BOT (Build-Operate-Transfer) basis is to be managed by the two ports. Earlier, while speaking with Khmer Times, Ky Sereyvath, Senior Economist and Director General of the Institute of China Studies at the Royal Academy of Cambodia explained how the traffic of goods through the canal is going to benefit the country. He said that currently Vietnam imports raw materials from Cambodia and exports finished products to other countries. "When Cambodian agricultural products go through Cat Lai Port in Vietnam, they need to follow Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures (SPS) imposed by the Vietnam government which restricts the exports of Cambodia to third countries. This results in Cambodia's agricultural products mostly ending up exported as raw products to Vietnam," Sereyvath explained. Once the canal becomes operational, Cambodia would be able to export its products directly to other countries, especially to those in the region, and this would boost the industrialization of the country. The inland waterway, stretching from the Takeo Canal of the Mekong River to Kep, is 100 meters wide upstream and 80 meters downstream, with a depth of 5.4 meters (a navigation depth of 4.7 meters and a safety gap of 0.7 meters). The project will build three waterway dams, 11 bridges, a 208-kilometre sidewalk, and provide navigation assistance and other cross-river infrastructure.

CAMBODIA: Malaysian companies' investments in Cambodia contribute to humanitarian aid, economic growth

Ly Thuch, Senior Minister and First Vice President of the Cambodian Mines Authority (CMA), today received Shaharuddin Onn, Ambassador of Malaysia to Cambodia, who paid a courtesy call and learned about the mine action programmed in Cambodia. During the meeting, Thuch spoke about the historical diplomatic relations between Cambodia and Malaysia for 67 years since August 31, 1957, especially actively participating in the peace process in Cambodia to end the Khmer Rouge regime and the deployment of its forces in 1993 to contribute to the UNTAC mission. Thuch emphasised that after the end of the war in Cambodia, Malaysia played an important role through investment into the country to help restore the economy. Moreover, since 2022, many Malaysian companies, including the Malaysian Chamber of Commerce in Cambodia, Virtus Media (Khmer Times), and Maybank, have not only contributed to the development but have created employment opportunities for the people of Cambodia, and also contributed to humanitarian activities such as the demining, the removal of explosive remnants of war and assisting victims of mines. On behalf of the Royal Government and the people of Cambodia, Thuch acknowledged the support and partnership in contributing to the socio-economic development efforts for local Cambodian people through the support of Malaysian companies. The Ambassador praised the relationship between the two countries and peoples and commended the Government for its leadership in the field of mine action for more than 30 years through the CMA. At the same time, he expressed his congratulations to Cambodia for being elected Chairman and Host of the 5th Review Meeting, or the Siem Reap-Angkor Summit on a Mine-Free World of the Ottawa Convention 2024, and wished Cambodia success in organizing the summit.

CAMBODIA: Farmers see pepper fetch high prices, despite low yield

Pepper farmers across the country are experiencing a bittersweet situation this year with higher prices being offset by lower yield. Figures from the Ministry of Commerce showed that pepper export more than tripled (219 %) to $25 million in the first half of 2024 compared to the same period last year. Currently, pepper grown in provinces like Kampong Cham, Thbong Khmum, Kampot and Kep, spread across 6,935 hectares, according to a Ministry of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries report. The price of pepper has increased significantly since early this year providing much-needed relief to farmers, said Mak Ny, President, Cambodian Pepper and Spices Federation (CPSF). It has gone up to $6,000 per ton, which is an increase of about $3,000 per ton compared to last year. "The price increase is definitely a positive news for our farmers," Ny said. The CPSF said it is closely monitoring the situation and working with relevant authorities to identify the underlying causes of the export decline. "We are working closely with farmers to understand the reasons behind why this year the cultivation of pepper went down. As of July, pepper cultivation has fallen 50 percent," he said. The recent adverse weather conditions, pests or diseases; which would pose a challenge for exports later this year and next could have caused the decline in pepper cultivation. Vietnam is the highest purchaser of Cambodian pepper, representing over 90 percent of total export. Last November, Cambodia and China signed a memorandum of understanding on requirements for pepper export, which has paved the way for direct shipment of Cambodian pepper to China. In addition to this the Kampot Pepper Promotion Association, which oversees GI pepper production, has also sought to enter China. The CPSF is also looking at business opportunities in other markets including the Middle East, North Africa and the US. Currently, Cambodia exports Geographical Indication (GI) pepper from Kampot and non-GI pepper. The non-GI pepper exported includes mixed pepper, good-practice-agriculture pepper and organic pepper. Kampot GI pepper is mostly export to the European Union.

CAMBODIA: WWF trains Kampong Cham officials on SNR specifications

The government in Kampong Cham Province on Wednesday to impart latex harvesting skills to provincial officials hosted a workshop on rubber technology. Titled ‘Transfer of Rubber Technology to Local Officers’, the workshop was held at the Department of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries. Organized with support from the World Wildlife Fund (WWF)-Cambodia, the workshop was conducted by the Rubber Development Department of the General Directorate of Rubber. The objective was to ensure adherence to EU Deforestation Regulations (EUDR) and Sustainable Natural Rubber (SNR). The event aimed to ensure environmental protection while at the same time maintaining the competitive edge of the rubber industry on the global stage. With the workshop, the authorities hoped to convince the officers to embrace good agricultural practices and comply with SNR and EUDR specifications. During the workshop, participating provincial officials taught essential skills in latex harvesting, in addition to participating in discussions on rubber cultivation and examining the intricacies of EUDR compliance. The opportunity also provided them with a platform to share their experiences with fellow professionals from other provinces. The backing from WWF-Cambodia is crucial in order to ensure EUDR and SNR specifications are complied with. It also ensures that sustainability is promoted while ensuring continued market access for the industry. “Massive changes are imminent in the rubber industry in Cambodia with the arrival of tire manufacturers. There will be heavy consequences on the domestic market,” Philippe Monnin, Managing Director, Memot Rubber Plantation Co Ltd told Khmer Times yesterday. According to a report released by the General Department of Customs and Excise of Cambodia, while global rubber exports declined, Cambodia saw a reversal with a spurt in exports. In the first four months of the year, the Kingdom’s rubber exports hit 83,428 tons of dry rubber. The report pinpointed the second half of 2022 as the beginning of this rise. The May report estimated a 3.7 % hike compared to last year. The report also put earnings at $125 million in the period between January to April 2024. The figure suggests a 7.4 % rise from $116.4 million in the same period in 2023.
