CAMBODIA: Listed river port sees significant growth in H1

Listed Phnom Penh Autonomous Port (PPAP) reported a sharp rise in container throughput in the first half of 2026, underscoring expanding trade activity in the country. PPAP handled 339,606 TEUs (twenty-foot equivalent units) in H1 2026, up 31.56 % from the same period in 2025, the port's Business Outcome report for Semester I 2026 showed on Thursday. PPAP CEO Hei Bavy credited the growth to the port's strategic focus on transparent and efficient operations. "The achievement is because PPAP has paid attention to providing the service of port operation with transparency and efficiency in responding confidently to the needs of customers," he said. Listed on the Cambodia Securities Exchange, PPAP is a key state-owned enterprise that facilitates international trade along the Mekong River corridor. Cambodia's two major ports, Sihanoukville Autonomous Port and Phnom Penh Autonomous Port, remain central to the country's import-export logistics. Official figures showed that Cambodia's exports reached $14 billion during the first five months of 2026, marking a 19 % year-on-year increase. Meanwhile, the country's imports rose 18.9 % year-on-year to $16 billion during the January-May period this year, the report added. Hei said PPAP is committed to transparent and effective daily operations across its terminals to boost confidence in and the attractiveness of its services through modernization and standardization for customers. The Comprehensive Master Plan on Cambodia Intermodal Transport and Logistics System 2023–2033 envisages the development of 11 key logistics bases nationwide. The plan aims to strengthen domestic and international connectivity, reduce transport and logistics costs, promote regional and global integration, and enhance Cambodia's competitiveness and economic diversification. To bolster the transport sector, the government plans to link major waterways and multi-purpose ports in riverine provinces with the under-construction Funan Techo Canal to facilitate the movement of goods for domestic use and export. Phnom Penh's river restoration to the upper Mekong will also be prepared to accommodate heavy cargo shipments and connect ports to the canal, easing onward transport to Cambodian seaports and international destinations, Prime Minister Hun Manet said on July 7 during the inauguration of National Road No. 7.

CAMBODIA: France ready to expand economic, trade cooperation with Cambodia

Nicolas Forissier, France's Minister Delegate for Foreign Trade and Economic Attractiveness, said that France is ready to work with Cambodia to promote trade and investment liberalization and facilitation, to further economic and trade cooperation. Addressing a press conference on Friday at the French Embassy in Phnom Penh following his successful visit to Cambodia, Forissier said, "We must continue to invest in various sectors that align with Cambodia's development trajectory and its ambition to expand into a developed economy." The senior French official, who was on a visit to Cambodia from July 9 to 10, focused on strengthening economic relations between France and Cambodia, as well as increasing French investment in the Kingdom. During his visit, Forissier held a series of meetings with key Cambodian government figures, including Minister of Commerce Cham Nimul, Minister of Mines and Energy Keo Rottanak, and Minister of Health Chheang Ra. The high-level discussions touched upon trade diversification, sustainable infrastructure development, energy transition, and improving healthcare infrastructure across the country. "In my visit here, I want to demonstrate the strengthening of our relationship, which will be interpreted by deepening economic ties," the French Minister said. Rottanak, during his meeting with Forissier, discussed the 800-megawatt hydropower project and the project to convert waste in Phnom Penh into electricity. He said the investment projects are under a feasibility study by French companies. The two sides also discussed oil and gas cooperation and supported the peaceful settlement of overlapping areas between Cambodia and Thailand under international law, Rottanak said. Forissier also engaged directly with representatives of the active French business community in Cambodia, which currently spans over 200 enterprises. "French companies play an important role in the development of many sectors of the economy, such as transportation, energy, finance, health, tourism, hotels, and construction, he added. France is the number one European country that invests the most in Cambodia. Trade volume between France and Cambodia reached $568 million in 2025, up 11.7 % compared to 2024, according to an official report from the Department of Customs and Excise of Cambodia. Cambodia exported $447 million worth of products to France, a year-on-year increase of 12.5 %. The Kingdom's exports to France are heavily concentrated in garments, footwear, and agricultural products. In addition to investment, in 2025, Cambodia received seven major projects funded by France. These projects will focus on agriculture, energy, clean water, and climate change, with over 1.5 billion Euros (approximately $1.7 billion). At the press conference, Forissier officially confirmed that French President Emmanuel Macron will participate in the 20th Francophonie Summit in Phnom Penh (Nov. 15 to 16, 2026) in person, signaling the profound historical, cultural, and diplomatic ties binding the two nations together. It is also an important historical stage, as it is a reasonable evolution that can contribute to enhancing the cooperation in the partnership between our two countries, he said. "This important summit will help Cambodia create various opportunities in the Francophone space and promote a more luxurious Francophone that is beneficial for careers and for those who speak French. This summit is to enhance the relationship between our 2 countries," Forissier added.

CAMBODIA: Cambodia's exports rise nearly 20 % in H1

Cambodia's merchandise exports reached more than $17 billion during the first six months of 2026, marking a 19.5 % year-on-year increase, a report from the General Department of Customs and Excise of Cambodia (GDCE) showed on Friday. According to the report, the United States remained Cambodia's largest export destination, accounting for $7.17 billion, or 42 % of the country's total exports. Vietnam ranked as the second-largest destination for Cambodian exports, importing goods worth $2.52 billion, followed by China at $943 million. Japan and Canada also remained important markets, with exports worth $906 million and $634 million, respectively. Garments, travel goods, footwear, bicycles, electrical and electronic components, agricultural products and other goods drove the export performance. Secretary of State and Spokesman at the Ministry of Commerce Penn Sovicheat said the continued rise in exports demonstrates the resilience of Cambodia's economy and the effectiveness of the government's trade diversification strategy. Speaking with Khmer Times, Sovicheat said, "The strong export growth reflects the confidence of international buyers in Cambodia's manufacturing capabilities and the benefits derived from the country's network of bilateral and regional free trade agreements." Cambodia has continued expanding market access through agreements such as the Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership (RCEP), the Cambodia-China Free Trade Agreement and other bilateral trade arrangements, while also improving trade facilitation, logistics and customs procedures to enhance export competitiveness, he added. Cambodia Chamber of Commerce Vice-President Lim Heng lauded the latest trade figures, viewing it as a positive signal of investor confidence and the country is growing role in manufacturing production networks. "The strong export growth indicates that Cambodia remains an attractive manufacturing base for international investors. The expansion of factories has supported higher export volumes while creating more employment opportunities for Cambodian workers," Heng said. He added that Cambodia's competitive investment environment, strategic location, expanding free trade network and improving infrastructure continue to strengthen the country's position as a preferred destination for manufacturing firms. Cambodia should continue diversifying both its export products and destination markets while increasing value-added production, Heng said, adding that this will help maintain sustainable export growth and enhance the country's competitiveness in the global marketplace. The garment, textile, footwear, and travel goods industry is Cambodia's largest foreign exchange earner, accounting for 46 % of the total export value, read the report.

CAMBODIA: Brazil and Cambodia target agro-processing and industrial growth

Cambodia and Brazil are strengthening cooperation in agro-processing, industrial development and innovation, as both nations look to expand trade and investment following the establishment of resident embassies in their respective capitals. The commitment was confirm during a meeting yesterday between Industry, Science, Technology and Innovation Minister Hem Vanndy and Ambassador of Brazil to Cambodia Vivian Loss Sanmartin. Minister Vanndy highlighted Cambodia's ongoing industrial shift and the nation's ambition to move up the manufacturing value chain ahead of its projected graduation from Least Developed Country status in 2029. "Cambodia is accelerating its industrialization as we prepare for LDC graduation in 2029," Vanndy said. "We welcome closer cooperation with Brazil in agro-processing, machinery, technology adoption, research and innovation to help strengthen the competitiveness of our industries and micro, small and medium enterprises." Vanndy proposed expanding institutional ties between research institutes, laboratories and metrology agencies, while encouraging Brazilian firms to explore investment opportunities in the country. Ambassador Sanmartin identified significant potential for cooperation, particularly in food processing, tropical agriculture, digital government and renewable energy. "Brazil has the right equipment, expertise and technology to support Cambodia's efforts to add value to its agricultural products," Sanmartin said. "We want to move beyond dialogue and develop practical cooperation that delivers concrete results." The ambassador expressed Brazil's readiness to link Cambodian institutions with government agencies, universities and industry associations, including the Brazilian machinery manufacturers' association, while supporting future business missions and technical exchanges. Both sides agreed to maintain close coordination to identify priority areas and advance initiatives aimed at strengthening bilateral industrial collaboration.

CAMBODIA: Cambodia and Philippines target stronger trade and agricultural ties

Cambodia and the Philippines have confirmed their support for deepening economic, trade and investment cooperation, with Senate President Hun Sen highlighting the potential for increased agricultural exports. The pledge emerged during a farewell meeting yesterday between Mr Hun Sen and Philippine Ambassador to Cambodia Flerida Ann Camille P Mayo at the Senate's Solidarity Palace. Senate spokesperson Chea Thyrith said Mr Hun Sen commended the progress made in bilateral relations during Ambassador Mayo's tenure. Thyrith noted that the Ambassador emphasized the advancement of diplomatic ties, underscored by high-level visits, including those by Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos Jr to Cambodia and Prime Minister Hun Manet to the Philippines. Ambassador Mayo focused on expanding collaboration in trade and investment, noting the Philippines' keen interest in importing a larger volume of Cambodian agricultural products. She added that people-to-people exchanges have become increasingly active, fostering closer regional ties. Mr Hun Sen welcomed the commitment, describing these sectors as the foundation of the bilateral relationship. He expressed confidence that rice exports to the Philippine market will continue to rise. Furthermore, he encouraged the establishment of more direct flights between the 2 nations to facilitate tourism and strengthen economic integration. Ambassador Mayo agreed, noting that Cambodia remains a prime destination for Filipino visitors. During the dialogue, Mr Hun Sen addressed the Cambodia–Thailand border issue, reiterating that the dispute must be resolved peacefully in accordance with international law and through established bilateral mechanisms. In response, Ambassador Mayo confirmed that, as the current ASEAN Chair, the Philippines would continue to support efforts to promote a peaceful resolution of the Cambodia–Thailand border dispute, ensuring that regional stability remains a priority.
