CAMBODIA: Cambodia's economy to grow 6.6% in 2024, says PM

Prime Minister Hun Sen said on Sunday that Cambodia's economy has been forecasted to grow 6.6 % in 2024 after it is most likely that the country will achieve 5.6 % this year even as garment and footwear industries have grown slightly slower than expected, which has been offset by the growth of non-garment manufacturing sector. He made these remarks at an interaction with approximately 20,000 factory workers from 24 enterprises in Bavet city of Svay Rieng province. Mr Hun Sen said while the total exports of the country in 2022 were $22.74 billion, Svay Rieng alone contributed $5.23 billion or about 23 % of the total export. Svay Rieng province's industrial sector has nine special economic zones that have employed over 80,000 workers who employed in different types of factories. "After I met workers yesterday, I reviewed the preparation of the macroeconomic framework for next year. We have thoroughly examined the economic growth of our country. This year, we may achieve growth as per the projection. The economic growth has provided benefits to the nation and people," the Premier said. Meas Soksensan, Spokesman of the Ministry of Economy and Finance, told Khmer Times yesterday that the government has revised the GDP growth forecast figures depending on the actual situation same as development partners including the World Bank (WB), International Monetary Fund (IMF) and Asian Development Bank (ADB). Without disclosing the figures, Prime Minister Hun Sen pointed out that the non-garment export products include bicycles and high-price electronic items, while bilateral trade between Cambodia and Vietnam has crossed $10 billion on an annual basis, while the former has had more trade surpluses compared to the latter in some years of the last decades of trade history. "The bicycles for export are more expensive than some kinds of motorbikes in our country," he said, adding that Vietnam is not only the main market for Cambodia's products as the neighboring country has processing technologies while Cambodia has raw material, but has not been unable to process this agro-industrial crops such as cashew, but also the main channel for its exports. Mr Hun Sen went on to add that it is very difficult to export goods that are produced in the special economic zones located in Svay Rieng province through the Sihanoukville Autonomous Port as it is very far from the province, which requires the government to cooperate with Vietnam to use its cheaper port to get economic gains..
